Kidnap and Ransom Insurance Hospitals

Working with brokers, underwriters at Specialty Group, a member of Tokio Marine HCC, can design a tailored program that addresses the wide range of exposures facing hospitals including their employees, patients, volunteers, non-employee physicians and trustees.

Why Hospitals are at Risk:

- Strong public presence and dealings with sensitive and controversial issues
- Facilities open to the general public
- Increasing dependence on cyber networks for information storage and recording
- Expensive drugs and equipment on property that could be sought after or threatened

Generally thought of as a safe haven, even hospitals are not immune to the risks associated with kidnapping, extortions or illegal detentions. It can take only one such event to crush a reputation or devastate a hospital financially; and the physical and emotional toll it may have on its employees and patients can cause a ripple effect that lasts for years. While a hospital must apply a unique security approach to properly mitigate these risks, one of the best places to start is kidnap and ransom insurance policy with Specialty Group.
